'They' Are Coming, Are 'We' Ready? How To Institutionalize Pronouns In Higher Education Wednesday, October 16 ~ 3:00-4:00pm (Eastern)

Once the live date has passed, this training will be available on demand.

Overview

While more than half of members of Gen Z state that they know someone who uses nonbinary pronouns for themselves (JWT Intelligence 2016), few colleges are prepared for students who use pronouns other than she/he, such as giving students the ability to indicate their pronouns in institutional systems. According to the Trans Policy Clearinghouse (Campus Pride 2019), just 38 colleges have a process for pronouns to appear on course rosters, and only one institution, the University of Iowa, asks pronouns of all incoming undergraduate students.

In recognition of the 2nd annual International Pronouns Day on October 16, this webinar will discuss the importance of recognizing students' pronouns and how colleges can do so by changing both institutional systems and cultural practices. The presentation will describe how the colleges that include pronouns in campus systems have set up their processes and how the students at these colleges who have indicated their pronouns self-identify. The successful effort to add pronouns to the online records of one college, the University of Massachusetts-Amherst, will be examined in detail to offer insights to those who are looking to have their colleges likewise have pronouns on course rosters and in administrative databases.

Objectives:

- Recognize the importance of providing a space for students to indicate pronouns
- Learn how to best address instances of misgendering
- Understand the process and results of giving students the ability to indicate their pronouns in administrative systems
- Developing guidelines for the use of pronouns on campus
- Embracing pronouns into the campus culture

Who Should Attend?

- Administration
- Faculty
- Human Resources
- Student Services/Affairs
- Graduate student instructors
- Any educator interested in learning more about supporting trans students

'They' Are Coming, Are 'We' Ready? How To Institutionalize Pronouns In Higher Education

Speaker(s)

"Of all groups on college campuses, trans students report some of the most negative experiences and some of the worst climates, in part because they are frequently misgendered. This webinar can help colleges recognize how they can begin to improve the situation for trans students through changing institutional systems and cultural practices."

Genny Beemyn is the director of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst's Stonewall Center, the coordinator of Campus Pride's Trans Policy Clearinghouse, and the co-chair of International Pronouns Day. Genny has published and spoken extensively on the experiences and needs of trans college students, including writing some of the first articles on the topic. They have written or edited eleven books/journal issues, including A Queer Capital: A History of Gay Life in Washington, D.C. (Routledge, 2014) and The Lives of Transgender People (Columbia University Press, 2011) with Sue Rankin. Genny's most recent book is an anthology, Trans People in Higher Education (SUNY Press, 2019). They are currently writing Campus Queer: Addressing the Needs of LGBTQ+ College Students with Mickey Eliason for Johns Hopkins University Press and editing The Encyclopedia of Trans Studies with Abbie Goldberg for SAGE. Genny is also an editorial board member and trans article reviewer for the Journal of LGBT Youth, the Journal of Bisexuality, and the Journal of Homosexuality. They have a Ph.D. in African American Studies and Master's degrees in African American Studies, American Studies, and Higher Education Administration.
